

Biography

Dr Catherine Bovill

Dr Catherine Bovill is Senior Lecturer in Student Engagement at the Institute for Academic Development (IAD), University of Edinburgh, Visiting Fellow at the University of Bergen, Norway and Visiting Fellow at the University of Winchester, UK. Cathy leads a team in the IAD who support colleagues across the University of Edinburgh to enhance programme and course design. She also leads strategic projects including the Principal's Teaching Award Scheme and the University's Curriculum Transformation Programme Student Engagement Strategy Group. She is Principal Fellow of the Higher Education Academy and Fellow of the Staff and Educational Development Association. Cathy is considered an international leader in the field of student-staff co-created curriculum, having published over 50 articles and books in this area and having been invited to present her work in over 10 countries, and offer consultancy to over 50 institutions. In 2019-2020 she was a Fulbright Scholar based at Elon University, North Carolina, USA.